The Chef's Recommendation

John 14:1b

Believe in God, believe also in me.

Today's Story

By Emily Hinckley

Today's theme was to learn to fully believe in Jesus. The story was about two Israelite women who told about Jesus' stories about God. Jesus said, "Peace be with you!"

Foodology Factory

By Erik Bahnson

Today at the Foodology Factory, two more experiments took place. The first experiment had two eggs (one hard-boiled and the other raw) spun on their side. The viewers were to observe the differences between the eggs revolutions. In the second experiment, oil was rubbed onto magazine clippings, and water was dropped onto them. The water drops formed into a bubble on the paper, through which the words could be read, now magnified and distorted.

Today's music selections were Today is the Day and Bread of Life!

Every night for the rest of the week, we will be collecting your offering to help
hungry families through Meifer International. Please bring some money to help needy families!

Arts and Crafts

and Erik Bahnson*

Today the chefs-in-training made Café Portrait Frames so that each one could be employee of the month. The frames were made of woven fabric, intertwining strips of red and white. A small ribbon was placed underneath the fabric as a hanger so the frames can be suspended on a nail or pin. Each chef had their picture taken to go in their frame.

Interview with Editor in Chief Deb

By Erik Hagen

Q: What do you do for VBS?

A: I run the videos and put together the articles that my reporters write.

Q: How do you like to cook?

A: Yes. My favorite dishes are manicotti and olive oregano bread.

Q: Do you like pink flamingos?

A: Oh yes. Especially in the dark of night.

Q: How has your time been at VBS?

A: Great! Especially when my reporters bring me a tasty snack.

Q: What's your favorite radio station?

A: 90.1 – Air1.

The Takeout Treatory

By Erik Hagen, Emily Hinckley and Noah Jensen

Today's snack was festival fruit kabobs. Chef Pistilli showed us lemons and strawberries, and told us that the lemons had more natural sugars than the strawberries. This teaches us to believe in God, because we have to trust that the lemons have more natural sugar. They made the kabobs with marshmallows, cantaloupe, pineapple, bananas, grapes, and strawberries. They also served red apple juice and cookies.
